Bricker Denounces "Gag" On Security News

Calls Order "Disgusting," Asks Repeal

Rips Truman Action In Senate Speech; Committee Has Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—President Truman's order on security information was denounced by Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) today as "subversive" and "an insult to Congress, the world's best press, and a free people."

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Bricker declared:

"A free people will demand the repeal of this disgusting Iron Curtain order of the President."

The Ohio lawmaker urged speedy enactment of his bill to wipe the order off the books. He says there is no doubt Congress has authority to do so. Other sponsors of the repeal measure are Senators Capehart (R-Ind) and Ferguson (R-Mich).

The bill was introduced last Friday and was referred to the Senate executive expenditures committee. That group has not met since

The presidential order, issued a week ago, provides for tightening and standardizing the handling of some military information. It authorizes federal civilian agencies to withhold data from the public if they deem such action is necessary for national security. The Defense and State Departments have had such authority all along.

Denies Censorship

Mr Truman has said there is no direct or implied element of censorship about the order. He stated it should not be used to stifle the free flow of news to the public.

Presidential secretary Joseph H Short said yesterday Mr. Truman has no intention of rescinding the order. "There's nothing wrong with the order," Short said.

Bricker, however, called it "vicious" and said it parallels steps taken in Russia, Argentina, India and Hitler Germany.

Striking a similar note, Rep Talle (R-Iowa) told the House yesterday he thought it significant that "the lid of secrecy is being clamped down even as congressional committees are sifting charges of corruption in the Truman administration."

He called the President's order "infamous" and said the charges to which he referred had been "unearthed by alert, enterprising news reporters."

Bricker declared:

"President Truman's order has for its precedent the controls over information imposed by the Politburo, Peron and Nehru, and by the late unlamented propaganda minister Goebbels in Nazi Germany."

"Unworthy"

Bricker termed the measure "unworthy of a President of the United States whatever his motives may be," and added:

"It is an insult to the Congress, to the world's best press, and to a free people. It is subversive in every sense of the word."

Bricker said that if the President had been "concerned exclusively with national security," his order would have been issued "In an entirely different form." Then he declared:

"The sweeping nature of this executive order suggests that Mr. Truman is more concerned with suppressing information relative to corruption, disloyalty and the general incompetence which is the trade-mark of his administration."

Bricker said everyone recognizes "that classification of information for security reasons by the Defense Department and by the Atomic Energy Commission must be tolerated in spite of the inevitable abuses."

But he said the new order gives more than 60 federal departments and agencies "the same power to suppress information."

Referring to the new measure as "a gag order," Bricker said there are four aspects of it which support his assertion that the

Make Apple Butter in Old Fashioned Way

Marion Women Revive Lost Art

MRS. CLARA LOPER, LEFT, AND MRS. ROXEL BROOKOVER of Marion are pictured above making apple butter in the old fashioned way. They cooked up ten bushels of apples in a 30-gallon copper kettle over a fire in the Brookover back yard. The job took most of the day with the women taking turns in stirring the flavorful ingredients.

By EMORY J. ANDERSON

Two Marion grandmothers made thirty gallons of apple butter last week in the old fashioned way. They cooked ten bushels of apples in a 30-gallon kettle over an open fire outside.

They were Mrs. Clara Loper of 318 Park street and Mrs. Roxel Brookover of 180 Tully street They worked from about 5 30 a. m Tuesday until 5 p m. in making the butter.

Both women have made apple butter from the time they were small girls living on farms in southern Ohio.

They make up their own recipe, adding ingredients to taste as they go along.

"I make everything better when I just guess," Mrs. Brookover said.

How It's Made

This is the way apple butter is made:

First peel and core the apples. Then boil them in cider adding sugar to make it as sweet as desired. The only seasoning needed is oil of cinnamon, the two women report. The pot is kept boiling about 12 hours.

The two women spent an afternoon peeling the ten bushels of apples. They spent the next day cooking.

Mr. Brookover started a fire in the back yard of the Brookover home at 180 Tully street at 5:30 a. m. Tuesday. The women began boiling the apple butter shortly after 6 a. m. and continued the work all day.

Since constant stirring is necessary to keep the butter from sticking, one of them had to stir the bubbling contents of the huge kettle all the time. They each took turns at the stirring job, using a paddle with a long handle.

Stored In Jars

When it is finished the apple butter is placed in stone or glass jars, sealed with parrafin and

Hit-Skip Auto Victim In Poor Condition

Pedestrian Run Over Twice; Patrol, Union Sheriff Investigate

James Arnett, 29, of Springfield, victim of a hit-skip driver early Monday on Route 47, two miles west of Summersville in Union County, is reported in "poor" condition today at Marion City Hospital. The Union County sheriff, deputies, and state highway patrolmen are investigating the accident, but have no clues concerning the driver of the vehicle.

The victim was found unconscious about 12.30 a. m Monday by James Davis of Marysville who was driving by the scene. Davis stopped a car driven by Richard Amrine, who, with his wife, was returning to Marysville from West Mansfield, and the two cars returned to the scene.

Calls Sheriff

Davis then went to the nearby home of Delgin Kemp to phone Walter Galloway, Union County sheriff, while Mr. and Mrs. Amrine drove into Marysville to report the accident. They did not move Arnett, who was lying on the edge of the highway. He was believed struck by a vehicle while walking along the road.

As Davis, accompanied by Mr. Kemp, returned to the scene about 12 45 after calling the sheriff's office, they saw a car swerve in the road. The driver, Thomas Brannan, 35, of West Mansfield, stopped and reported that he had seen Arnett, but was too close to avoid hitting him, and had run over his feet.

Sheriff Galloway arrived at 1 10 a. m., but did not hold Brannan for investigation.

Arnett was taken to Marion City Hospital by the Winters ambulance of Richwood. His injuries include fractures of both arms and back, a possible leg fracture, lacerations all over the body, and a severe cut on the back of the head. He underwent surgery yesterday afternoon.

Arnett works in Springfield at the Robinson-Myers Co. and visits his mother, Mrs. Florence Cox of near Peoria, on weekends.

Sheriff Galloway reports that an employe of the Delgin Kemp farm was struck by a hit-skip driver last year within 100 feet of Monday's accident, and that the driver was never identified.

Joint Committee Opens Hearings on Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—House and Senate conferees headed today into their first encounter on the new tax bill, 264 amendments and $1,800,000,000 apart in estimated revenue.

The five senators and seven representatives on the conference group held little hope of resolving all the hundreds of points of differences in less than 10 days or two weeks. If possible, however, they want to make sure the measure can be signed by Oct. 21, the deadline if proposed excise tax increases on such items as whisky and gasoline are to take effect Nov. 1.

Metz Appeal Hearing Set November 8

State Civil Service Commission To Meet In Marion Courtroom

The State Civil Service Commission today set Nov 8 as the date for a hearing on the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Mac D. Metz, former superintendent and matron of the Marion County Children's Home

It will be held in the Marion County Common Pleas Courtroom The hearing has been set to decide the merits of ouster charges filed with the commission by the Marion County Child Welfare Board and an appeal for reinstatement by Mr. and Mrs. Metz.

Suspended April 5

They were suspended from their positions by the board April 5 for a 30-day period. The board then followed up with permanent removal orders filed with the Civil Service Commission.

The orders contained charges of incompetency, insubordination, neglect of duty, malfeasance and other charges of misbehavior against both the superintendent and the matron. In answers filed with the commission, Mr. and Mrs. Metz flatly denied all charges

The removal orders contained 68 allegations against Mr. Metz and 37 against Mrs. Metz.

Russell M. Wilhelm and Robert A. Kelly are attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Metz while the Child Welfare Board is represented by the Guthery, Harmon and Conkle law firm.

Could Appeal to Court

If the commission should return a verdict upholding the ouster, Mr. and Mrs. Metz could appeal through the courts. Should a decision in their favor be returned they would be returned to their positions, now filled by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Giblin.

The five-member board approved the ouster y at 3-2 vote. Voting against the move were John Stafford and Mrs Troy McClure, who have since resigned from the board The group now is composed of Walter D. Moore, E. E. Banning, Dr. Frederick Rea, Mrs E. Paul Bachman and Walter Mautz. The latter two replaced Mr Stafford and Mrs McClure.

Division Head Resigns After Road Failure

COLUMBUS, Oct. 2—(AP)—State Highway Director T. J. Kauer today accepted the resignation of Dawson Smith, Division 11 engineer, in whose area a portion of new highway failed recently.

Five hundred feet of State Route 36 in Tuscarawas County crumbled 15 minutes after it had been opened to traffic.

Kauer said Smith, chief engineer of the District, submitted his resignation voluntarily. Smith lives in Dover.

In accepting the resignation Kauer said:

"This action is to be regretted and I feel it is no discredit to the integrity of Mr. Smith, but in the face of existing conditions on this particular stretch of road which is the responsibility of the engineer, I feel this is the course to be followed"

Kauer said he has appointed Dean L. Beauregard acting division engineer. The job pays about $6,600. Beauregard is assistant division engineer.

Two engineers under Smith were suspended for 30 days after the road failure. They still are off duty.

More Heard In Crawford Home Inquiry

BUCYRUS, Oct. 2 — (AP) — Additional witnesses will appear today before a Crawford County grand jury inquiring into charges of mistreatment of inmates and mismanagement at the county home

Prosecutor Leo Scanlon's office said two witnesses appeared yesterday, and more were scheduled for today.

Scanlon has been investigating administration of the county home after charges that former Superintendent Harold Dinkel and his wife, the matron, were responsible for mistreating inmates and sending them with county equipment to work on the farm of a county commissioner. The Dinkles have been discharged.

A coroner's report said there was evidence of mistreatment of inmates, but cleared home personnel in the death of an aged inmate.

In Columbus, Carl Smith, State Civil Service Commission chairman, said Dinkel will get a hearing Nov. 15 in his fight against removal as supervisor of the Crawford County Home. The hearing will be held in Bucyrus.

Originally the commission planned to hear the case earlier but attorneys asked the postponement.

Head of U. S. Joint Chiefs Is Confident

Returns to Tokyo After Tour of Front; Truce Not Ruled Out

TOKYO, Oct. 2 — (AP) — Gen Omar Bradley said today United Nations forces in Korea are strong enough "to keep anyone from running over us" and, if truce talks collapse completely, fight the war to a successful military conclusion.

"I don't think the Communists can hurt us," Bradley said in Korea after a two-day tour of the front.

The chairman of the U. S Joint Chiefs of Staff made it clear the U.N. is ready to resume armistice negotiations anywhere that provides "equal rights" to both sides —even in Kaesong.

However, there was no sign from Red commanders that they were willing to meet either at a no-man's-land site proposed by the U N, or to completely change conditions in Kaesong to provide "equal rights" to the Allies.

Bradley flew back to Tokyo amid reports that he will cut short his visit.

This may indicate that the purpose of his flying trip from Washington has been accomplished. That purpose has never been announced, although it has been the suoject of much speculation.

Bradley's Korean tour was marked by confident, hard-talking statements from American generals who accompanied him and from Bradley himself.

Not Ruled Out

Bradley did not rule out the possibility that disrupted truce talks might be resumed in Kaesong

Before flying back to Tokyo with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, top U N. commander, Bradley said:

"It all depends on the circumstances. We've suggested a place with equal rights. So far we have had no reply."

For six days the Allies have been waiting for top Red commanders to answer Ridgway's suggestion that talks be resumed—in no-man's-land.

Ridgway proposed a meeting in the vicinity of Songhyon, six miles southeast of Kaesong where the Reds broke off talks 41 days ago.

So far the Communists have made no official comment on the suggestion.

Bradley has said he does not feel Kaesong can supply "equal rights" to both negotiating parties. Red troops exclusively police that zone

In Korean news conferences Bradley said of truce parleys collapse completely, the U N forces are capable of fighting the Korean war to a successful military conclusion

Praises High Morale

He paid unstinting praise to the U S Eighth Army, including its attached units from other United Nations

"Everything I have seen indicates high morale and training," Bradley said "The team work between the various services has been tops. The supply system is in fine shape and I don't think it can be improved.

"We are getting a lot of ammunition up to the front and shooting a lot. And that's how we save (Allied) lives."

Most of the general's remarks were made in a planeside interview before Bradley and Ridgway flew back to Tokyo. They landed at Tokyo's Haneda air field at 7:55 p m. (4:55 a.m E.S.T.).

During his Korean trip Bradley visited the U. S. Third Division and other frontline units.

Then he flew with Ridgway to Pusan, temporary South Korean capital. There the two generals talked with U. S. ambassador John Muccio. They did not call at the residence of South Korean president Syngman Rhee.

Advantages In New-Type Barn Seen

VAN WERT, O., Oct. 2—(AP)—A barn of unusual construction is nearing completion on the farm of R. M Zeigler near Van Wert.

It's called a "pole type" barn Experts say it can be built for one-third the cost of a conventional two-story barn, and it can serve more uses and lighten work.

The dimensions of Ziegler's barn are 91 by 52 feet, and the highest inside measurement is 20 feet.

Creosoted poles, similar to telephone poles, are set in the ground about four feet deep around the outside wall. Two lines of poles extend down the center of the building.

The main frame of the barn is built on these poles. The frame consists chiefly of two-by-six and two-by-eight inch lumber.

Very little sawing is needed, and no mortises or tenons.

The interior is open, permitting a wide variety of uses, such as feeding hogs, steers or sheep. It may be used as a loafing shed for dairy cattle.

It's built low to the ground so most of the feed can be stored where livestock may do most of their own feeding.

The barn will have movable hay feeding fences, so the cattle can eat right from the stack. Two large doorways will permit entry of tractor manure-loaders and spreaders. There is space for storing farm machinery.

Today's Birthday

GROUCHO MARX, born Oct. 2, 1895 in New York City, as Julius Marx, son of a tailor, and brother of Chico, Harpo, Gummo and Zeppo

This famous comedian and impersonator is regarded by many critics as the champion of the family.

Groucho started his career with The Messenger Boys, singing in restaurants in 1906 to raise money for the victims of the San Francisco earthquake.

U. S. Aid Is Needed, Says Cordell Hull

WASHINGTON, Oct 2—(AP)—Cordell Hull, in an 80th birthday statement, said last night that "men and women desperately striving for freedom desperately need our aid, and that aid we must render"

In a message issued through the State Department, the Tennessean who was secretary of state from 1933 through 1944 said "Our country occupies a unique position . . . in this current struggle between the forces of freedom and the forces of tyranny"

"So great are our resources by comparison with those of others," he continued, "that victory for the forces of freedom is possible only if we act now with the same fervor and the same dedication with which the 13 colonies fought in defense of the rights of free men 175 years ago"

Hull has resided here since his retirement. He has been in and out of Bethesda Naval Hospital several times, but apparently is in good health again.

Proposed Tax Bill Explained To Realtors

Analysis of Measure Sent Real Estate Board by Rep. Betts

Members of the Marion Real Estate Board at a luncheon meeting Monday at the Marion Hotel, heard an explanation of a new tax bill, regarding home sales, which is scheduled to be up before Congress soon. A discussion of the bill followed.

Under the new tax bill, a person owning a home and selling it at a profit will not be taxed on the profit provided he buys or builds another home for the same amount or more. In the past, the tax has discouraged many people from selling and building or buying again—if they sold, then they were taxed up to 25 percent maximum of the profit from the sale.

A question and answer analysis of the bill was sent the Marion Board by Jackson E. Betts, congressman from the Eighth District of Ohio.

Plans were made by the board members to attend the 44th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held Nov. 11-17 at the Netherlands Plaza Hotel in Cincinnati John B Prichard has been appointed delegate to represent the Marion Board.

Joe Davis, president of the Marion Board, presided for the meeting and read a release from the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards. Members learned through the release that "America is not only the best housed nation in the world but has shown a tremendous increase in housing units in the past 10 years." It related that census figures show that the number of nonfarm dwelling units rose by almost 10 million, from 29,683,000 to 39,390,000 or 32.7 percent in the period from 1940 to 1950.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Great Experiment

Well, the great experiment was not an unqualified success but it certainly was an interesting one "The British Broadcasting Corporation and the National Broadcasting Company (conceivably the first time NBC has ever taken second billing) present 'The Big Show' . . . as an expression of unity between the two countries," ran the opening announcement on the show heard in England Sept. 17 and somewhat edited and rearranged, heard over here Sunday night

John Crosby

It was anything but an expression of unity, this English presentation of an essentially American radio show The British press was overwhelmed by our production know-how, aghast at the cost ($75,000 for the one in London and another in Paris) occasionally bewildered by the jokes and altogether opposed to Miss Tallulah Bankhead's rendition of "Jervis Bay," a poem by Gene Fowler celebrating the famous fight of an armed British freighter against a German pocket battleship.

* * *

IT HAD THE perfect timing and zest of a commando raid," declared "The Daily Mail," but I regret to say I left the theater feeling I had been given a spanking and then a toffee apple by a hasty and generous uncle" This rather obscure sentence refers to the fact that the show was studded with jokes about British austerity and everything else British (the spanking) and ended with Miss Bankhead's husky paen to British courage (the toffee apple).

"The American-type exchanges between George Sanders . . . and Tallulah Bankhead were very funny indeed in the impolite adolescent way of that kind of American humor," continued the same paper

Impolite? Adolescent? As to the first, Miss Bankhead has specialized in the comedy of insult which is something the British are pretty good at, too, though they use a different inflection The adolescence is an expression of opinion which we'll have to grant the newspaper. Whether it was or not, the predominantly British crowd of 2,000 persons at the Palladium found Miss B's opening lines uproariously funny.

"Bless you, darlings," intoned that famous foghorn which resounded on the British stage for so many years "Now let's see—what was I saying when I left London sixteen years ago — oh, yes—make mine a double. Oh what a happy return to the scene of my former triumphs — but they're all married now. If they had to get married, why didn't they marry me. Why marry strangers?"

* * *

MISS BANKHEAD carried on in this vein at some length not only on the air but in the British press The British press fell upon 'The Big Story," more particularly Miss Bankhead, as a news story almost unparalleled since Sarajevo. The Americans in the entourage, accustomed to radio coopla attracting absolutely no attention in American newspapers, were flabbergasted by the amount of space they grabbed in Britain

Said Goodman Ace, head writer on the show "Here the British have a sick king, a crisis in Iran and a war in Korea and yet we were on the front pages all the time 'The Big Show' and Franchot Tone—we were the big stories of the day" Besides Miss Bankhead's extravagant personality, the British press played up the fact that Wilfred Pickles, probably England's most popular radio entertainer, wouldn't appear on the show (Pickles is an ad lib interviewer who refused to do a script show). In this country if Arthur Godfrey was too busy or too tired to appear on somebody else's show, no one would care especially even if they heard about it, which is unlikely.

* * *

NOT ALL the British press was unkind "The News Chronicle" decided it was one of the best "radio entertainments of its kind I ever listened to" "The Daily Telegraph" declared that British and American humor do coincide to some degree and the stately "Times" was exquisitely non-committal The Daily Telegraph took a poll of its readers and discovered more pros than cons, a dubious compliment.

No, Thanks

IT IS conceivable that Britain's Socialist government might involve the United States in a Middle Eastern war because Socialists in Iran have taken over British oil-refining properties.

But on the face of it, the proposition of drifting into war because Iranians want to kill the goose that lays their golden eggs is no more attractive than the prospect of using high explosives to recover the properties of the English mine owners relieved of responsibility by the Attlee ministry.

Or to bring the matter closer to American experience, it is no more attractive than the prospect of organizing an expeditionary force to Mexico to win back the lost rights of the oil companies which lost out when Socialists moved in down there.

It can be demonstrated with arithmetic that the Iranians are stupid to force out British; they have more to lose than to gain, in the form of income from the sale of oil. But it cannot be demonstrated with arithmetic or anything else that the Iranians, or whoever has the authority to be acting in their behalf, are committing an international crime. Included in the right of sovereignty is the right to be stupid—and it has been exercised freely by all nations.

There is no desire among Americans who have been following the ins and outs of British socialization to take the rifle off the peg over the door because Iranian politicians have seen merit in the same idea.

Farm Price Stiffener

PUBLIC reaction from the U. S. Agriculture Department's efforts to stiffen farm prices will be bad—except among farmers.

It will be as bad as the reaction from the automobile industry's efforts to stiffen prices for its products has been. That brought joy only to the hearts of people who help make automobiles.

It brought no joy to potential buyers of automobiles, or to the dealers who must sell them. They conceded that the arithmetic of inflation made it necessary, but they dreaded the effect on them.

All the Department of Agriculture is going to do is encourage farmers to store somewhat larger parts of certain crops under government loans than they might store otherwise. It feels it has an obligation to sustain as high a market level for these crops as it can because it advised farmers to raise more of them as part of the government's war-preparedness policy.

In other words, since farmers have no means of acting in unison to hold back supplies from a sluggish market which could be glutted, the government is going to intervene in their behalf. This will irritate everybody who would like to see the price of food come down while the price of everything else stayed up. They will be as annoyed as farmers have been recently while watching the prices of automobiles, farm machinery and just about everything else go up while farm prices kept falling.

More Sweat

BEST bet is that the conferees on the new tax bill will agree on schedules estimated to produce about $6,000,000,000. This will be $4,000,000,000 less than requested by the White House, $1,200,000,000 less than the bill passed by the House, but $500,000,000 more than the bill passed last week by the Senate.

If the figures seem fantastic and unreal, that is because federal taxes, themselves, have become fantastic and unreal. Including the estimated yield from the new tax bill, the federal government will collect something less than $61,000,000,000 this year and spend something more than $71,000,000,000.

But these figures are wide open to challenge, revision and correction, because they are only estimates. Even after everything has been put into the record, no one can agree any more on what is collected and what is spent by the federal government, because methods of accounting vary. Only one thing can be said about federal taxes without reservations and footnotes.

They are approaching and in some instances already have reached the point where boosting them higher would produce no net increase in revenue. The way to understand this is to think of a water tank being filled from a well and being emptied at the same time through a spigot. Increasing the size of the spigot without increasing the flow from the well would not add anything to the available supply of water.

The only way to produce more revenue is to produce more wealth. To do anything else will be to merely juggle the true value of money to conceal the fact its true value is being wiped out by a rate of spending beyond the rate of earning the right to spend.

Ford Frick's promotion to baseball commissioner brings a $65,000 salary and probably some headaches he never knew the great national game could produce.

There are reports that the Russians have new jet fighter planes superior to ours, but as for the pilots, that's another story.

The Book of The Year

By Raymond Moley

It's Report on Income Picture of Economic Affairs

TO ANYONE concerned with the present and future of our economic well-being, the most interesting book of the year should be the U. S. Department of Commerce Survey of National Income, 1951 edition. This volume has just appeared after a delay of about two months. In most years a condensed version of its statistical data appears in the July number of the Department of Commerce Survey of Current Business. But apparently in the years before presidential elections a supplement is issued—a deluxe affair with a wealth of graphs and tables and a text very well printed indeed. At any rate, one of these appeared in 1947, and another this year.

MOLEY

Whether the thought occurred to the Administration's people who got this book out that it might be useful in a Presidential campaign, deponent answereth not. but the book, it may be assumed, will be the more or less holy script for Democratic orators next year. It can be standard reference, however, for the opposition, if said opposition has the wit to arrange some of the figures to portray what has really been happening to our economic life under the Fair Deal. For the material is all there, to be used by our citizenry at the small cost of one dollar a volume.

* * *

ALREADY THE figures in the book have been used by Fair Deal senators to attack Senator George's Senate tax bill. For in dollar amounts personal incomes and corporate profits have reached exciting heights. But reduced to dollar and per capita values, they present a quite different picture.

Presidential advisers are already portraying our prosperity in estimates of vast increases in national income. Workers will be reminded of immense increases in pay over the past two decades, and farmers are reminded of their unparalleled prosperity.

Space does not permit any adequate review of the book here, but from time to time I shall make selections for use in this column.

In one spot the authors of the book have provided a key to a more rational analysis of the dollar figures in the book. The gross national product was $283,000,000,000 in 1950. In 1939 it was $81,339,000,000. But corrected for 1939 dollars, it was a little more than $150,000,000,000 in 1950. That is still a substantial rise.

* * *

BUT BEFORE this increase is taken as a measure of the increase in our national well-being, we should take into account the fact that something has happened for which neither President Truman nor President Roosevelt can claim credit. We have more people who produce and who can consume.

Reduced to a per capita basis, using the census figures of 1940 and 1950, the per capita income for 1950 was approximately $1,000 For 1939 it was $631. That is still a fine increase for our collective selves. It is a real per capita gain of nearly 60 percent. Some of us individually did better than this. Some did not do so well.

Turning to the comparisons of average personal income, we find various examples of wage increases since 1939. In the manufacturing of "products of petroleum and coal," there was a dollar increase from $1,852 in 1939 to $4,320 in 1950. Reduced to 1939 dollars, this is an increase from $1,852 to $2,289. In "water transportation," the increase has been from $1,553 to $4,413. Corrected for 1939 dollars, this is an increase from $1,553 to $2,338.

* * *

IN LESS FORTUNATE callings, the increase in the cost of living and hence the decline in the value of dollars has brought about losses—sometimes very serious ones. Many in the white-collar group are barely well off or worse. Retired people are decidedly worse off and their situation is getting still worse every day.

Before we submit to the psychology of prosperity evoked by the government, we should recall that we are not all getting better and better. Some of us are; some are not.

Career Wives

By TRUMAN TWILL

THE title "business wife" which Fortune Magazine uses to describe a remarkably efficient cog in the free enterprise system leaves something to be desired.

A far better title would be "career wife," which more nearly describes the job that has been performed since the beginning of time by all women who have tried to give their husbands a helping hand in the direction they wanted to go—the wives, not necessarily the husbands.

The setup has involved vastly more than business, which happens to be the particular field in which Fortune Magazine is interested. It reports that the executive-wife-corporation triangle is one of our modern marvels. A whole generation of women who know when to smile, when to keep their mouths shut and when to open them to say the right thing has been developed by the pressure of modern economics. If their husbands are transferred to Ripple River, Ia., they grin and bear it, even pretending to be crazy about Ripple River. They are, reports Fortune, "the most tractable material the corporation has ever had."

But this kind of career wife is only one of many, most of whom never will be written up in Fortune. For example, there is the wife smart enough to comprehend her husband's mental limitations, to realize that he has a right to be happy inside these limitations and to laugh year in and year out ad infinitum and ad nauseam at his feeble jokes. What a career!

Also the wife who has the grace to realize she is married to a bloke who never is going to make more than a subsistence living, provided he makes that much, and so settles down to the thankless task of stretching it as far as it will go, without complaining because it would do no good anyway. Step up and get your medal, madam.

Also the wife who spends a lifetime concealing the fact she is bored stiff by long-winded accounts of everything that went wrong with her husband's day—and keeps right on listening patiently because she is smart enough to know the gink must pop off periodically or explode. As if things didn't go wrong with her day too!

Also the helpmeet who makes a career out of building up the ego of a milquetoast with the gumption of a sickly mouse, and who would not even have that much if denied assurance each night and morning that the female he married thinks he is the greatest boon to civilization since inside plumbing. There should be a monument to that gal, too.

There are all kinds of careers which men follow which wouldn't be worth the effort if their wives didn't alternately pat 'em on the head and kick 'em in the pants. Most men are inclined to dope off or go native, if left to their own devices.

It's only career wives who keep them headed in the right direction and comfort when they stub their toes. Fortune's "business wife" is only one kind of hundreds whose members have helped their men with everything from spring plowing to the correct interpretation of the classics.

Remarkable creatures, women. Nothing they can not do if they set their minds to it, including making their husbands amount to something.

The Return of Henry Wallace

By George E. Sokolsky

OUT of the quiet of his chicken farm, Henry Wallace has emerged with some more than passingly interesting correspondence. He had, in June and July, 1944, recommended to President Franklin D. Roosevelt what appears to be an anti-Chinese Communist policy.

The correspondence arose out of a controversy between Joseph Alsop, columnist, and the McCarran committee on the nature of the activities and attitudes of Owen Lattimore and John Carter Vincent, who accompanied Wallace on his trip to China. Louis Budenz had testified that the American Politburo were pleased that Lattimore and Vincent went along, and therefore Wallace would be steered properly.

SOKOLSKY

Alsop went to the defense of Vincent, offering as evidence that Vincent participated in and concurred with Wallace's anti-Communist report. Prior to that, Vincent had written Alfred Kohlberg that he had had nothing to do with Wallace's report; Also Dean Acheson had written Senator Walter George as follows:

"Mr. Vincent was assigned by the secretary of state to accompany Mr. Wallace, the vice president of the United States, on the journey mentioned. Mr. Vincent did not prepare or assist, in the preparation of the report and does not know what recommendations it contained. Mr. Vincent had never met Mr. Wallace prior to the trip to China, saw him only a few times on official business after their return, and has had no contact with him since his resignation from the government."

* * *

NOW, MR. WALLACE adds to these contradictory data the factor that there were two documents, one of which Vincent saw; the other he had not seen. The first was a message dated June 26, 1944 cabled two days later from New Delhi; the second was a report which Wallace handed the President on July 10, 1944. Vincent participated in and concurred with the New Delhi message but never saw the July 10 report.

This division of documents Vincent did not state in his letter to Kohlberg, which is a categorical denial; nor does it appear in Dean Acheson's comment to Senator George, which is equally a categorical denial.

Although the Wallace correspondence may take Joseph Alsop off the hook, it fastens Vincent and Acheson on it more tightly.

All these contradictions are less important than the fact that Henry Wallace made a report to President Roosevelt which he regards as Anti-Communist and pro-Chiang, although that is a matter of opinion. It is possible to say now, in 1951, that had Roosevelt accepted Wallace's present interpretation of his counsel this country might not today be fighting in Korea. Also, Soviet Russia would be preoccupied with her Manchurian and Mongolian borders and would not have had so free a hand in Europe.

* * *

WHY THEN WAS Wallace's advice ignored? Roosevelt is not available to tell us, but the subject is nevertheless interesting.

Look at the date! Wallace's report was handed to the President on July 10, 1944; Yalta did not occur until February, 1945. It was at Yalta that Roosevelt finally agreed to the steps which have made China a satellite of the Kremlin; yet Wallace had fully warned him of the perils. Wallace in his letter to President Truman says:

"In short, I urged President Roosevelt to help the generalissimo's government to help itself by bringing back to power the better men in the Chinese Nationalist ranks."

Therefore, it would be sound for the McCarran committee to go more deeply into the question, not that it will lessen the loss of American life in Korea, but because it is necessary to discover the design of intrigue, the procedure by which a President of the United States can be influenced to pursue a policy which in time proves itself to be against the interests of the United States.

* * *

WE MUST ASSUME that no President can know everything. He must depend upon experts and advisers. If the Wallace report, like the Wedemeyer report, fell into the hands of such advisers and experts; who counseled Mr. Roosevelt to ignore it? Who were these advisers and experts? What was their motive? Why were they so powerful?

Apart from this, another matter must intrigue most Americans. Subsequently to July 10, 1944, Henry Wallace became associated with the Communists who were using him. Ultimately, he repudiated this relationship which had wrecked his public career. Why was he silent about his anti-Communist views which he now says were in his cable of June 28, 1944 and his report of July 10, 1944 until Sept. 19, 1951 when he wrote President Truman? So much blood has been spilled because Wallace's report was ignored; yet Wallace was silent. Why?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A Line To Mr. Christenberry

MR. ROBERT K. CHRISTENBERRY,
Proprietor, Hotel Astor, N. Y.

DEAR SIR:

With Governor Dewey counting at the knockdown, you have been named the new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, one of the big factors in American pugilistic affairs. You were walking along minding your own business when—bam! alagazzam!—(it could have been a rabbit punch) everything went black and when you woke up you found yourself in one of the toughest spots outside of Korea, a U.N. peace conference or a Hollywood wedding. (There wasn't even time for the announcer to say if you were the one wearing purple tights or the one wearing black.)

PHILLIPS

Well, a lot of romantic and exciting things have happened to people in the Astor Lobby, but nothing more dramatic than what happened to you, Bob. It is one of the most famous meeting places in New York. Thousands of natives and visitors have had Fate shadow-box with them there, but you, the proprietor of the place, are the first to go into the record books as a victim of a kayo that knocked you from the lobby right into the ring of Madison Square Garden. (I would not have been more flabbergasted if Eddie Eagan had been named manager of the Astor.) You are about as peaceful a man as there is in Gotham. Yet when the fight situation gets awful and a shakeup is demanded, you are picked for the task.

* * *

I guess maybe one reason is because you are also a restaurant man and can be depended on to know what's cooking and when to dish it out. The fight game in America has been short of such qualifications. As a restaurant man you know all about eggs, too, which will help. You will find eggs in the fight game such as you never saw in the hotel business. The fight business is full of smoothies, double crossers, fast-dollar boys, fixers, percentagers and larceny expert and what it needs is not so much a hotel operator as a house detective and a flock of good bouncers. You can supply them, I hope.

* * *

The minute you open up in the new job you will get a barrage of back talk, hot arguments and heavy squawks, but a hotel man is used to such things in these days of heavy demand for rooms, complaints over reservations and yelps about the room service, I guess. If any man gets hardened to troubles it is a modern hotel proprietor, and maybe that is what Governor Dewey probably had in mind when he tapped you. I see where the Governor demands that you do two paramount things:

1—See that boxing is rid of cliques and kept open so all fighters can get a square shake.

2—Insist that fight managers, promoters and matchmakers are men who can bear the fullest scrutiny.

* * *

Well, if you can do those two things and still run a hotel you get an Oscar of some kind. That scrutiny business will be extra hard, as there are a lot of the boys who are not easy on the eyes. But as a hotel man you never forget a face, which will help some.

* * *

I could point out quite a bunch whose faces would not only NOT bear scrutiny, but would not even make a quick glance nice work. Your task is cut out for you and I hope you won't wind up saying, "I should of stood in an Astor bed." Keep your chin up, but protect it at all times with arm and elbow.

All good wishes,
ELMER

P.S.—What the boxing game needs most is plenty of cross ventilation and fewer "Do Not Disturb" signs on managerial conferences.

LIFE IS LIKE THAT

Work, behave, rest,
Watch your starches;
What'll it get you?
Fallen arches!

2-Way Radio Used By Bucyrian To Aid Crash Victims

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Edwin E. Gearhart, former Bucyrus High School principal and now a sales engineer for Motorola, Inc., reported today an unexpected use for his walkie-talkie radio.

Enroute home Saturday from the state firemen's convention at Mansfield, where he had demonstrated the unit, he arrived at the scene of a head-on crash west of Mansfield, second after it occurred. He immediately contacted the Richland County sheriff's office with his walkie-talkie and within minutes an ambulance and a state highway patrol car arrived at the scene of the accident.

The injured persons, Charles Skinner, 42, of Mansfield; Charles W. Noble Jr., 29, Delphos, O., and his wife, Ethel, 29, were admitted to Mansfield General Hospital. Skinner later was released. Mrs. Noble is in good condition and her husband's condition is fair, hospital attaches said.

Gearhart's timely arrival on the scene and his use of his two-way radio were credited by authorities today with providing immediate hospitalization for the injured persons.

Banana Fritters Will Add To Cook's Fame

IF YOU'RE looking for a conversation piece to liven your next dinner — and what cook isn't — look no further. Designed to make you famous in your neighborhood as an original and fine cook, this recipe for crisp-staying banana fritters is your solution to the problem of what's new and still appetite-inspiring.

Crisp coating, fluffy inside and banana center make these fritters tops in eating and yet they can be made at home just as easily and successfully as most fritters. It's a recipe to be treasured as a masterpiece in its own right.

BANANA FRITTERS

Melted fat or salad oil
2 to 3 firm bananas
¼ cup flour
Fritter batter

To deep-fry, have deep kettle ½ to 2/3 full of melted fat or oil. To shallow-fry, have 1½ to 2 inches of melted fat or oil in frying pan. Heat fat to 375° F., or until a 1-inch cube of bread will brown in about 40 seconds. Peel bananas and cut each crosswise into 3 or 4 diagonal pieces. Roll in flour. Dip into fritter batter, completely coating the banana pieces with the batter. Deep-fry or shallow-fry in the hot fat about 6 minutes, or until well-browned. Turn fritters frequently to brown evenly. Drain on a rack. Serve hot with the main course, or serve as a dessert with a hot fruit sauce, syrup or sweetened whipped cream. Makes 6 to 12 fritters.

Fritter Batter: Sift together 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1¼ teaspoons salt, and ¼ cup sugar into mixing bowl. Combine 1 egg, well-beaten, 1/3 cup milk and 2 teaspoons melted shortening. Add to dry ingredients and mix until batter is smooth. Important: Have fat at correct temperature (375° F.) before frying. This is a stiff batter and makes a crisp fritter which will stay crisp for 15 to 20 minutes after frying. This batter should not be "thinned down."

Tumor of Kidney in Children

Though tumor of the kidney is considered rare in children, there is one type of growth which does affect them fairly often. This is known as Wilm's tumor, and, if it occurs, it is likely to show up in early life. It is rarely seen after the age of 10 or 12 years.

This tumor is the more dangerous in that it causes no symptoms. Ordinarily, the first sign is observed by the child's parents in the form of a large, hard swelling in the abdomen. Otherwise, the child looks normal and there is no pallor.

Strange as it may seem, there is usually no disturbance in the action of the kidneys. If the tumor is discovered late, there may be some blood present in the urine.

Children and infants with any marked swelling of the abdomen should be taken to the doctor immediately for a complete physical examination. A diagnosis may definitely be made by taking X-rays of the child after a dye has been injected into a vein. After it has been definitely established that the child has a tumor, a careful X-ray examination should be made to determine whether or not the tumor has spread.

Recently, 96 cases of Wilm's tumor were studied. It was found that survival of the children having this type of tumor has steadily increased since 1914. The increase in the number of children cured of this tumor is due to newer methods of treatment.

Immediately after the tumor has been surgically removed, the child is given daily exposure of deep X-ray to various areas surrounding the kidney affected. It has been found that children under one year of age have a better outlook than older children having this disorder.

It is important in all cases of swelling of the abdomen in little children that an examination be made for the presence of Wilm's tumor. If it is present, early surgical removal should be carried out with intense X-ray treatment given immediately after surgery.

Questions and Answers

J. K.: I just had an X-ray of my lungs. Would any lumps in my breast show up on the X-ray?

Answer: Usually, lumps in the breast do not show up on X-ray. However, certain breast tumors and cysts which contain calcium will appear occasionally in an X-ray.

Marion Garden Center Notes

GROUND COVERS

In shady corners, under trees and in many other situations where neither grass nor flowering plants will succeed, Pachysandra, English ivy, Periwinkle (Vinca) and other such low, thick growing, evergreen plants are invaluable. They are gratifying and easy to grow. They are also economical to grow in such places as on a bank where the cost of maintaining grass in good condition is excessive.

Ground covering as a means of creating pleasant little garden scenes has not been fully developed but enough has been done to show its value and potentials to warrant its undertaking. Pachysandra, Enonymus, English Ivy, Running Myrtle and other broad leaved evergreens are most satisfactory in shady difficult situations. Trailing Juniper Halls Honeysuckle, the Memorial Rose, and Virginia Creeper are examples of suitable materials for use on large banks. For smaller patches, several of the Sedums, Thymes and Veronicas may be used to advantage.

Ground Ivy is a hardy perennial creeper useful as ground cover because it grows so rapidly and forms an attractive mat in either open or shaded locations.

NEW YORK

THE ostrich-known for his hide-of-the-head technique—will become a pride-of-the-head technique for milliners this winter.

Scarcely a high-fashion hat designer this side of Rue De La Paris is showing a collection without emphasis on his plumes.

And the ostrich, who has been consistently revived to style every decade or so since the overdressed days of Louis XIV, is once again the bride among birds'

Ostrich feathers are still considered most effective in hatwear when they are allowed to fluff to their chic content. But some milliners are so sold on ostrich as millinery material for all-day-round wear that they're clipping the plumes, dyeing them in vivid colors, and turning them into casual daytime hats.

Luckily for still-kicking ostriches, the trend will probably not last long. It's part of the rebirth of a Victorian trend in ready-to-wear, and predictions are rampant that the Victorian look will do well to "stick" in style till mid-spring, 1952.

So women on a budget might do well to ostracize the ostrich!

Millionaire at 33

Businesswoman Has Formula For Success

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

HALF the people in the world are women, and most of them sooner or later have babies

Starting with this well-authenticated premise, Elsie Frankfurt, a young Texan as smart as she is pretty, built up a business which has just won for her a unique honor.

Elsie has been elected the first woman member of the Young Presidents' Organization, one of the most exclusive clubs in America Each member must be president of a firm doing an annual gross business of a million dollars and all are under 39 years of age.

Elsie, who is only 33, is president of a Dallas maternity dress firm whose only other stockholders are her two sisters, Edna Ravkind and Louise Gartner. The firm's annual gross is $2 million

The three girls started their business in 1938, when the eldest was barely out of her teens and the youngest still in pigtails

Edna, the first to marry, was expecting her first baby, and Elsie, recently graduated from Southern Methodist University, couldn't stand the way her sister looked, which, she says, was something like an unmade bed.

* * *

SO SHE DESIGNED a skirt, now known as the windowpane skirt, which has sold 250,000 copies to date. Edna wore the skirt, her pregnant friends saw, admired and demanded one like it, so the girls rented a Dallas store, hired three seamstresses and set themselves up in business on a total capital of $500. Says Elsie:

'We just made the one pattern in all kinds of fabrics and colors, and after six months we had $3,000."

With this bonanza in hand, the three girls decided to tackle the wholesale market, despite dire predictions from their father, who was shocked by their carefree business methods. The girls didn't borrow any money from anybody, you see, didn't ask credit from banks or suppliers, and generally carried on in an independent manner completely out of character for well-bred southern girls.

* * *

WITH THEIR PROFITS they bought ten machines and during the first year did a business of $100,000, still making just the one style of maternity dress.

Asked how they managed to hire salesmen to work up a national distribution to stores, Elsie said airily:

"Oh, another of our friends was pregnant, so she wore the dress to New York and sold it to all the big buying offices Before we got the machines installed we had orders from 60 big stores all over the country."

Today, in addition to their manufacturing firm, the sisters have eight retail stores—two in Dallas and others in Indianapolis, Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Beverly Hills and San Francisco.

* * *

THE YEARS SINCE, Louise has married and produced two children, Edna now has three offspring, and Elsie is still unmarried. Each new "expectancy" period among the married sisters is the occasion of a batch of new maternity dress designs, which literally are home-tested. Says Elsie:

"It isn't really necessary for Edna and Louise to keep having babies, but it certainly is helpful."

She also has some tips to prospective career girls. Since most of the women in the country seem to be rushing out to jobs these days, Elsie thinks they might as well operate on the good old American principles of free enterprise and individual effort. She advises:

"First pick out something you enjoy doing Then investigate the opportunities. Ask advice from everybody but don't take any of it. Use your own brain.

"Try to find something in the way of goods or services for which there is a real need—and then supply it. The more basic it is, the better.

"Babies are pretty basic, and that's one reason the maternity dress business is good."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

HOLLYWOOD

HEARD ON THE BEAT:

AT "Prince" Mike Romanoff's the other night, at a table just south of Spencer Tracy and north of Georgie Jessel and Eddie Cantor, sat one of Hollywood's bright young producers, slightly subdued. Less than four months ago, he had threatened — and meant it — to kill a newspaper columnist for linking him with a Hollywood undercover Communist who became a prominent and successful movie agent

Someone took the producer's gun away and brought him together with the newsman, who showed him how he had been duped.

Victor Riesel

At Romanoffs they met again—and the roving reporter was able to point to testimony at Congressional hearings here to prove that this agent, George Willner, had deceived an entire community.

Willner, whom I exposed not so long ago as a one-time Communist propaganda chief, was revealed here as a man who tried to starve anti-Communists. He was shown as living evidence that it was the Communist apparatus which persecuted and attempted to destroy the rights and liberties of non-Communists. Willner would tell his non-Communist clients, who trusted him, that there were no studio bids for them.

In one case in the investigating Congressmen's record, it was shown that Willner, once head of the Communists' Theoretical Magazine, the New Masses, rejected jobs for work totaling $100,000 offered by the studios to one of his clients, writer Martin Berkely. So subtly did Willner operate that he managed to obtain even the most ardent conservatives as his clients. How much he cost them, no one will know.

Yet there are those who say that men such as Willner, who deprived others of their basic economic rights, should be treated as political personalities, entitled to civil liberties, instead of as men whose social crimes put them beyond the pale of the garden variety kind of decency.

* * *

NEXT INVESTIGATING stop for probing Congressmen will be Detroit. There they'll look deep into Communist infiltration into the Ford Motor Co. They're now looking for witnesses in the auto city, as in Cleveland and Chicago Hearings should begin the last week in Oct.

* * *

THERE'S NO LABOR relations business like the Hollywood relations business. Just when the Screen Actors Guild and the Studio Stage Hands and Technicians Unions relax in the feeling they've met every conceivable problem, along comes peppery little Sammy Fuller, a director over at 20th Century-Fox. The bantam genius strapped a .45 Colt to his thigh—and shot off live ammo to start action on each scene of his latest war picture Furthermore, in his drive for realism Fuller racked up 19 casualties among the union people

There were wrenched legs, dislocated knees, hands burned when shells were exploded, wounded legs in a bayonet scene, a broken ankle—and one A F L. cameraman collapsed when the director pulled his revolver trigger just a few inches from the lensman's head. Had the picture been just a little longer in the making, the A F L. stage hands would have hit him with a pile of grievances—saying, in effect, the boss can't use a loaded revolver to drive his union people.

* * *

SOVIET PROPAGANDA across the world attempts to crucify us as immoral people—and points to such shennanigans as the Tom Neal slugging of Franchot Tone over a woman as an example of our beastliness In the devout millions abroad, this takes hold. As a counter offensive, a handful of union people, here have done some searching of their own into Communist morals when the party takes over a nation's movie industry. Here's what they found in Sovietized China.

After leaving Yenan, former Red Chinese capital, the Communist chiefs not only took over the movie industry and banned our films, but also appropriated the more comely women there One movie actress, Lan Ping, was reserved for the Soviet's moral number one man—Mao Tse-tung. Once in Peiping, Liu Shao-hi, second in command to Mao, simply selected a Miss Wang, former beauty at Yenching University. Peng Chen, Peking mayor, picked the daughter of a former war time collaborator of the Japanese. So it went

No mere peasant lads, these pious proletarians who would smear us.

ON THE LOWER floors of the Sailors Union of the Pacific's magnificent modern new building is an up-to-the-moment gym. There, any morning, in the ring, or at the punching bags, can be found men keeping in shape for a showdown soon with Harry Bridges' tough flying squads. When they meet, the waterfront will be bloody. The A F L. decision is not to retreat from Harry Bridges' Longshoremen's Union ever again. Even if it means tying up all Pacific shipping . . .

Should such a showdown strike break out, the sailors' leader, the slim Swede, Harry Lundeberg, tells me he can put up 2,000 men in his building, and feed them even under siege. One look into the union headquarters big ice boxes, in which frozen steers can hang, and into the big soup tureens, convinced me swiftly he was right

THE SOUTHWEST may soon lose some of its laborers, who, in turn, may soon become millionaires In an isolated area of New Mexico on which the impoverished Navajo, Ute and Pace tribes scrounge for a living, the government has discovered rich uranium fields, heavy coal deposits, and oil and gas reserves . . . It belongs to the Indians.

THE MOBS OUT HERE learn that one national magazine has its investigators in the field seeking evidence for a piece charging that the boss mobster of them all—the Mr. Big—is a New York waterfront industrialist, friend of waterfront union leaders.

Full Day's Reading

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

EVERYBODY has a hobby these days, from bird watching to collecting early photos of Gypsy Rose Lee.

My hobby is reading Sunday newspapers. On Sunday. This hobby has been the bane of my dear wife's life for 14 years.

"If I had known about that beforehand I'd never have married you," sighed Francis. "Why don't you collect butterflies? Then we could be out in the fields together and get some fresh air? Or Golf? I'd be glad to carry the clubs for both of us, if you'd just take up golf.

Hal Boyle

"But no, not you All you want to do is sit upside down in a chair and read Sunday newspapers"

There are two kinds of Sunday newspaper hobbyists—the skimmers and the perfectionists.

The skimmers are those who lie in bed with a handful of Sunday papers They rip open the pages rapidly, scanning a story here, and there, until they are covered from head to foot by a paper tent that shuts out the light. Then they fall asleep.

* * *

PERSONALLY, I THINK the skimmers are people who move their lips while they read I belong to the perfectionist, or classic school of hobbyist. We are never happy unless we read a Sunday paper all the way through—stories, ads, and pictures.

One of the great sadnesses of my life is that I have never been able to do this with the Sunday New York Times Reading it from first page to last is a goal as challenging to my fellow hobbyists as the English Channel is to long-distance swimmers.

The Times has just observed its hundredth anniversary. And as a footnote to its celebration I'd like to announce that last week, after 14 years of effort, I finally read my way clear through its Sunday edition. In a single day. That's important. Ive done it several times by spreading it over several days.

The morning dawned clear and fair. There was a note of victory in the air I was in fine fettle.

When my wife brought in the papers, I told her, "Honey, it's today or never."

"What? Not again?" she wailed.

* * *

JUST TO WARM UP I pawed through the other Sunday papers in two hours. Then I turned to the Times. It was only 266 pages—a hopeful sign.

By noon I had zoomed through the general news sections (76 pages), the real estate section (22), and the classified ads (16). in good supply.

It was cheering to note that $250 a month apartments are again

After a late breakfast of eggs, bacon and tea, I went right back to my hobby. By 2 p.m., I had racked up sports (12), drama, music, art, and travel (26).

Then, after fifteen minutes of trotting around the room and doing full knee bends, I took on the business and business opportunities section (12 pages), and decided to leave my $500 in government bonds and let the stock market struggle on without me.

Next came my favorite, the book review section (36). It was then 6 30 p m. My wife brought in a meat sandwich, and pleaded:

"Give up, dear. You'll go blind."

Never! Groggily I attacked the magazine section (56 pages). By 10 p m. it was done, and I felt refreshed from the pictures.

* * *

AFTER TEN MINUTES more of deep knee bends, I turned into the home stretch—The Review of The Week. Twelve pages later I sank back, exhausted but happy. I had made it—after all these years.

"My hero!" said Francis tenderly. "You must rest now, dear. Next week we'll go to the country—and no newspapers for you."

"Don't be silly," I told her. "Whoever heard of just swimming the English Channel one way? Next week I'm going to go clear through the Sunday edition backward."

I will, too, bet no man in history ever did that

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I saw doubt in the eyes of both Bill and Hank at my father's question, but Bill's answer was prompt

"We'll do our best, sir," he said. "There's bound to be chattel about his entertainments — they are always so flamboyant But we have no other way of finding out anything about the exact date of his next party, unless you have some instructions about our procedure."

"No," my father said with an encouraging smile, "Just keep your ears open for stray comments, and when you glean any information, telephone this suite at once over the unlisted outside telephone which, in a little while now, will be installed in this suite.

"But," he went on, "fortunately I have sources of information which are denied you Our agent at New Haven will know ten minutes after the 'Yale heel' has made arrangements for his dinner at any hotel or restaurant in New Haven or in a radius of twenty miles from there. It will promptly be relayed to you and to my daughter and my son-in-law here"

He paused for a second, then issued what we all knew was a command.

"I wish all six of you chaperones and young people to hold yourselves in instant readiness to attend a dinner of your own at the same place and time as that of the one arranged by the young man we are trying to trap. Nothing but the most serious illness must interfere with this. Of course Richard and Margaret and Miss Conway are free agents, but the plans of your boys and Miss Grey are dependent upon your college regulations. However, I have the hearty cooperation of the presidents of both colleges They will permit no plan of theirs to interfere with this projected party. So, please, all of you be ready at any minute for my summons'"

He let his eyes rest on me when next he spoke

"Margaret, I wish you and Richard would go into a conference with your guests before they leave tomorrow and plan your dinner and dance—I suppose that will be the program to the last detail. Then, as soon as I flash the word, Bill and Hank can go to the hotel I designate, the one in which the other party is being thrown, and make arrangements for the one you have planned. You will also make reservations, boys, for your uncle and aunt, and for Miss Grey and Miss Conway If you have any trouble in getting a table reservation at the hotel or restaurant you wish, telephone here at once Richard will immediately get in touch with me, and I will arrange matters so that you do have your table.

"I do not wish you to stipulate that your table should be near that of your classmate That matter will be arranged as soon as I know the name of the place you are going.

"And now," he finished, "I do not think there is anything else I have to add to these directions. At ease, all of you" — his lips twisted whimsically — "for the rest of the evening"

But that he was not at ease himself, I knew when I saw him look at his watch with restrained impatience Then he put a rhetorical question to himself.

"Wonder if I ought to telephone my friend again," he said

The sound of the door knocker answered his question, or at least I was sure it did. And my guess was confirmed when Dicky opened the door.

"The men are here to install the telephone, Dad," he said.

After War Emergency What?

Businessmen Pondering Future of Defense Plants

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 — (AP) — American industry is doing a record amount of building this year —expanding, in a $25-billion-a-year rush to build up military might.

Today some businessmen are wondering: what are we going to do with all these defense plants, once the need for so much expansion of military might is over?

Most of the new plants and new tools of production are for defense or defense-supporting industries. But most of them can be converted to making goods for civilians, when the time comes that the military doesn't need—on a keep-going basis—as much industrial plant as it does now on a building-up basis.

Business doesn't question the need for defense nor the emphasis now concentrated on tooling-up for it. It can't help wondering, though, about two things:

1. When the defense building boom stops, will other construction needs be enough to keep this major prop of the economy still standing—or will there be a building slump and unemployment?

2. If plants now being built for defense production are no longer needed for that, will civilian demands for the goods they make be enough to keep them running—or will our industrial production capacity be seriously over-expanded?

* * *

THE RUSH TO invest in new plants is already slowing down in most industries, the Department of Commerce reports. Notable exceptions are: primary steel and non-ferrous metals, non-electrical machinery, non-automotive transportation equipment and rubber.

But the momentum of plans already made indicate that building will continue at a high rate well into 1952, depending on how much material is made available for construction.

The effect on industry, however, may not reach its greatest force until 1953 or 1954. This time lag is based on World War II experience. The National Industrial Conference Board noted yesterday: "More than half the total additions to manufacturing for the five years 1940-45 had been completed by the end of 1942, and more than three-fourths by the end of 1943. But the peak output of industrial raw materials did not come until 1944."

* * *

IT IS IN 1953 OR 1954, therefore, that some businessmen fear the nation will have more industrial plant than is needed to keep the military supplied on a replacement basis, and more than civilian demand will need.

Businessmen have the understandable tendency to expand their plant and operations only during periods when business is good, prices high and demand at a peak. When they all rush off to the contractors' office, the costs of building are likely to be high and materials become scarce.

The rub often comes in that demand may be at a peak when the plans are laid but will have slumped badly by the time the expensive plant is completed.

When demand is at the bottom of the cycle might seem to be the more logical time to expand a plant, to be ready for the pick-up in demand on the upswing of the cycle expectable ahead. But it's hard for any businessman to work up enthusiasm for expanding at a time when sales are slow.

THE DEFENSE and defense-supporting industries now so busily expanding — as they unquestionably should, if defense needs are to be met—are mostly those who were expanding anyway, although at a more sedate pace, because they are the ones whose sales have been good and the prices for their products firm.

That is why some businessmen aren't worrying for fear industry is overexpanding. They contend these basic production plants will be needed even after defense needs are moderated.

Those who worry, however, say: "How can you be sure the consumer demand was on the upgrade and thus justifying the expansion? What if it was at the peak and ready to drop?"

The optimists reply: "Our population is expanding so fast—both more babies and longer-living oldsters—and our standards of living are improving so constantly, that we'll need all the new plant And maybe more."

Debate Blocks Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP) —Senator H. Alexander Smith wants the Senate to approve today a huge foreign aid bill as a "vote of confidence" in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied European commander.

Senator Connally (D-Tex), meanwhile, prepared to pilot the $7,483,400,000 bill into stormy Senate waters as a measure "to keep war away from our shores." Smith, Republican from New Jersey, made his support known in a speech scheduled for the Senate's afternoon session but released in advance.

Elsewhere in the Capitol Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) called Senate-House conferees to a second day effort (2 p.m., E.S.T.) to resolve differences between the two Congress branches on a huge U. S. military spending program, aimed at swifter buildup of this nation's might on land, sea and in the air here and abroad.

The Senate version would authorize expenditures of $59,508,009,630. The House bill totals $3,473,292,430 less.

A fight sparked by Republicans snarled the foreign aid measure in a parliamentary tangle blocking Connally's efforts to speed it to an unscheduled vote last night.

Kitts Gang Behind Bars

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP) —The Federal Bureau of Investigation said today four arrests in the last 10 days put behind bars the last members of a gang allegedly responsible for looting Mid-west banks of $100,000.

This, the FBI said, was the Kitts gang, with headquarters at Omaha, Neb. The bureau described its members as "rough, tough and brazen," and its leader as Kenneth Allen Kitts, 34-year-old native of Kansas City, Kan., with a penchant for expensive cars and clothing.

Kitts was arrested near Fayetteville, Tenn., the FBI said, after a break from state custody at Omaha.

Within five days after Kitts was arrested, the FBI said, the FBI picked up the final three of his alleged associates. They were named as Toney Joe Biase, arrested at Omaha, Frank James Ellsworth near Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Charles Calvin Robinson at Torrington, Wyo., all under indictment for bank burglaries.

The bureau said the Kitts gang has operated from a headquarters in Omaha since 1945.

covered with either cloth or waxed paper and stored.

"A little apple butter on toast with a cup of coffee is never hard to take in the morning," Mrs. Loper said.

The apple butter is to be divided between the two families and will probably be gone in about two years, both women said.

Both were raised on farms in Lawrence County near Ironton and moved to Marion some years ago. They often make things together—apple butter, sauerkraut and hooked rugs for example.

Both do a lot of canning each year. They can vegetables from their gardens and fruits they buy.

Mrs. Loper's husband, Perry, is a crossing watchman and Mrs. Brookover's husband, Sandy, is employed at the postoffice. Mrs. Loper has two children, Miss Nellie Hypes of 318 Park street and Merrill Loper of Council street. Mrs. Brookover has three children, Gilbert Brookover of Columbus, Clyde Brookover of near Marion and Mrs. Ralph Gay of 229 Barnhart street.

Iceland Native Enters O.S.U. After Visit in County

Miss Holmfridur Margrjet Jonsdottir, a native of Iceland who visited in Marion County last week, has entered Ohio State University where she is doing graduate work in English and methods for teaching English. She taught English, as well as German and Danish, in Iceland for four years and in Norway for 15 years.

While in Marion County, she was a guest at the Gomer Johnson farm near New Bloomington. She entertained students at New Bloomington School Tuesday morning with a talk, during which she spoke Icelandic and demonstrated songs and dances of her native country.

In Marion, she visited a super market and a dairy plant, and inspected the State Street School. Concerning the latter, she remarked that she envied Marion in having such a building.

The climate in Iceland, according to Miss Jonsdottir, is not cold as generally believed, but is rather mild, since it is near the Gulf Current. The people of the country live on the coast and farming and fishing are their major occupations. Her father was captain of a fishing boat.

Twenty-one states now use electric roll call voting machines in their state legislatures, according to the Council of State Governments.

Dewey Hunts Backers For Eisenhower

Sounds Out Western G.O.P. Governors On Draft Campaign

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Oct. 2 —(AP)—A drive headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to enlist westerners in a draft-Eisenhower campaign was under way here today at the 43rd annual governor's conference.

Meanwhile Dewey was scheduled to preside at a round-table discussion today on social security and welfare at which Oscar R. Ewing, federal security administrator, was listed as a speaker. Dewey and Ewing have not agreed in the past on some social security problems.

Dewey was busy beforehand with efforts to enlist as many western Republican governors as possible in a campaign to land Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the 1952 Republican presidential nominee. Eisenhower's principle strength now lies in the East—in New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The New York governor was reported to have conferred with governors Dan Thornton of Colorado, Howard J. Pyle of Arizona, Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico, C. Norman Brunsdale of North Dakota, and Arthur B. Langlie of Washington.

Finds One Recruit

These conferences were said by some who attended to have produced Thornton as the only out-and-out supporter of Eisenhower in the West, with the exception of Gov. Edward F. Arn of Kansas. The others were reported to have expressed interest in the general but to have suggested that some tangible evidence of his candidacy be produced.

As an upshot, there were suggestions that Thornton accompany Senator Duff (R-Pa) to Europe this fall to talk with Eisenhower and bring back to the Republican governors any message that might be obtained. Duff apparently expects to get a clearance from the general for a country-wide campaign in Eisenhower's behalf.

Arn denied any knowledge of a purported plan calling for Eisenhower's return to this country to be a guest at the annual Kansas Day celebration in that state next Jan. 29.

If the Republicans were busy politically, the Southern Democrats were no less so in a conference where the official talk has been about state, national and international problems, but all of the informal discussion has been pointed at next year's presidential race.

John Foster Dulles, Republican State Department adviser, told the governors at their annual state dinner last night that President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. George C. Marshall, former secretary of defense, had given him "100 percent support" in his task of drafting the Japanese peace treaty.

He said Dewey, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), a potential 1952 G.O.P. presidential candidate, and Senator Millikin (R-Colo), head of the conference of G.O.P. senators, had helped establish "national unity" in this endeavor.

Bricker said the order is ambiguous, has unlimited scope, "unlimited power to delegate authority to censor," and makes "no provision for appeal or review."

Senator Calls For Gabrielson, Boyle To Quit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP) —Senator Williams (R-Del) renewed today his call for the resignations of both Republican and Democratic national chairmen.

The relations of both with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are under Senate investigation.

Williams told a reporter he was not impressed by a vote of confidence Guy G. Gabrielson, the G.O.P. chief, got yesterday from 41 members of the Republican national committee at a one-day regional conference here. That was all of the 104 committee members who were here.

"Both Gabrielson and William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman, have acknowledged that they interceded with the RFC concerning loans to clients who paid them fees," Williams said.

"Both men contend they used no political influence. But no matter how hard they try, they can't get away from the fact they do have influence—political influence—and that a telephone call or visit from them in behalf of a client is bound to carry more weight with a government agency than if someone else did it."

Williams said he sees no difference between a majority and minority party in that respect, since no government official can be sure whether the next election won't reverse positions.

The Senate investigations subcommittee is preparing to recess or wind up its public hearings tomorrow in the case of Boyle, and to hear Gabrielson the following day in a parallel investigation.

Bankers Meet In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 — (AP) — Members of the American Bankers Association hold the first general session of their 77th annual convention here today.

On the program of the bankers, who in the past two days, have heard warnings that greater inflation and cheapening of the dollar are coming, were Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the board of the governors of the Federal Reserve system.

Association members were accused in a public relations session last night of failing in many communities to make their influence felt outside their banks.

Dr. F. L. Schlagle, superintendent of Kansas City, Kan., public schools, said "there appears to be a pulling away from civic responsibility."

He urged the bankers to become more interested in the schools and what the schools are teaching in the social studies about management, labor, private or government owned business, nationalization of industry, and the profit motive.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST:

Air Battle

Allied attack on a narrow bridge near Chorwon.

Reds laid a continuous mortar and artillery barrage on the United Nations troops. Fire from Allied guns, tanks and planes was so heavy a pall of smoke hid Chinese positions.

The jet battles swirled from 30,000 feet down to tree-top levels. The destroyed toll matched that reported Dec. 22.

The day's first battle was fought just before noon between 45 MIGs and 36 American F-86 Sabre jets, flying interference for a rail-cutting mission over MIG Alley.

Two red-nosed Communist jets were sent spiraling down in flames.

Five hours later 32 Sabres took on 80 MIGS in the same area. After a 25-minute fight the Sabre pilots reported they destroyed four Red craft, probably shot down another, and damaged one more.

Kills in the second fight were reported by George W. Dunne of Wilmington, Del. who shot down one and shared in destroying another; Lt. Charles R. Spath of Hamilton, Ohio, who shared in the kill; Capt. Paul W. Bryce of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., and Capt. Lloyd J. Thompson of Dover, Del.

Probable Kill

Lt. Douglas K. Evans of Washington, D. C., was credited with the probable and Lt. T. Booth Holker of Bozeman, Mont., with one damaged.

In the first fight America's top ace still in combat made one of the kills It was the third jet for Col. Francis S. Gabreski, of Oil City, Pa. He was credited with 31 German planes in World War Two.

Lt. Col. George J. Ola of Arcadia, Fla. knocked out the other red-nosed jet. It was his first.

Both Red jets went down in flames.

Gabreski and Ola came upon the MIGS at 10,000 feet. The Red jets split up as the Sabre jets swept down on them.

"I took the one that broke to the left and fired some long bursts at short range," Ola said. "They struck the fuselage and it began smoking. The canopy fell off and the pilot fell out of the plane I never did see his chute open."

Gabreski said he fired a good burst at the other jet and "the plane began to burn. The canopy fell off and the pilot ejected himself. The MIG slipped over, went into a tight spin and headed for the ground."

175 Attend Marion School Of Religion

Paul P. Wiant, Lay Missionary, Tells of China

Marion County School of Religion opening night Monday drew attendance of approximately 175 to hear the forum speaker, Paul P. Wiant, lay missionary many years in China, and approximate registration of 160 for the six classes of the school

The speaker's hour preceded the class sessions, with the entire school gathered in the sanctuary of the new First E.U.B Church where the school for church workers will continue each Monday night through Oct 22. Annual School of Religion in the county is sponsored by the county Council of Churches.

Taking part in the devotional phase of the forum hour were Rev. Evan R. Owens of Prospect Street Methodist Church, chairman, opening prayer; Rev. Asnley Booth of Central Christian Church, president of the Marion County Ministerial Association, Scripture; and Rev. L. Harrison Ludwig of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, president of the Council of Churches, prayer.

School Committee

Later, recognition was given members of the school committee, Rev. Don Hochstettler, host pastor, Rev. Ludwig, Rev. Booth, Miss Ruth Schott, registrant, D. T. Mills, Miss Margaret Huffman, Miss Lydia Ebel, now of Springfield, and Arthur Haas. Members of the faculty introduced were Rev. J. Paul Goebel of First Evangelical and Reformed Church, Rev. L. R. Kennard, of Green Camp Methodist Church, Dr. Henry Schaeffer, pastor of St Paul's English Lutheran Church Dr. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, Mrs. Thelma Wilcox, supervisor of Weekday Religious education in the public schools, and Miss Neva Witthuhn, director of Christian education of Calvary E. U. B. Church.

In spite of the savage efforts of the Communist government in China to eliminate the Christian Church, the efforts of missionaries over the years is not in vain, and funds for missionary work has not been "money down the drain," Mr. Wiant told the audience. He spoke from his vast store of experience of 34 years in China as a lay missionary architect for the Methodist Church. with more than 400 buildings to his credit. He was in the Marines in World War II.

Reviews History

Reviewing in brief the history of 5,000 years of China's civilization, he spoke of the various revolutions which have taken place in China in this century, and pointed out that the Communists got a foothold there as long as 25 years ago. Those officials were driven to the northwest, and the survivors are the Communist leaders of today. It is their aim to get Christians of all the denominations to join the party, then pressure them to "forget the foolishness of religion," as the Chinese people are pressured in general to accept the Communist policies in all things.

Christians are being persecuted, but they will take their religion altogether "underground" if need be to keep it from being wiped out, he said.

The lecture was followed by question period. An opportunity will be given to register for the school again at next Monday night's session, it was stated.

Dispute Over Student-Dating Teacher Ended

AMBOY, ILL., Oct. 2—(AP)— A settlement has been effected in the dispute between the Amboy school board and a high school teacher who was fired for dating a blonde senior student.

Terms of the agreement were not announced. However, the teacher, Stanley W. Gibson, who had been fighting the board's dismissal order, will not teach at Amboy High School.

The agreement announced yesterday was understood to allow Gibson, 31, and divorced, to resign his post and the school board will withdraw its dismissal notice. He has been under suspension since the start of the current school year and his dismissal was to become effective Nov. 2.

A statement by the board and Gibson said the settlement was "for the best interests of the school, the community and all the parties involved."

Gibson indicated he would consider offers outside the teaching profession. He said he had made no future plans.

Gibson at three public hearings contended his dates last spring with Miss Joyce Underhile, 17, an honor student, were not detrimental to the school system, as claimed by the board.

Miss Underhile, now a freshman at the University of Illinois, testified in Gibson's behalf. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Underhile, also supported Gibson's position.

Drunk Fined $75, Ordered To Pay For Torn Uniform

Raymond Donald Wilson, 31, of the Milner Hotel had "the book thrown at him" today in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication, disorderly conduct, and resisting arrest.

Wilson was fined $75 and costs, given a 30-day jail sentence, and ordered to pay for Patrolman Leo Harvey's uniform which he had ripped. The jail sentence was suspended by Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

Wilson resisted being taken into custody by Officer Harvey and two other policemen on North Main street at 11:35 p. m. yesterday, police said. When he arrived at police headquarters he was unable to give arresting officers his name or address. He spent the night in jail.

He was taken to the Marion County jail today when he could not pay for his fine.

Smith being the predominant family name in the United States, The Encyclopedia Americana points out the geographical center of the country is located in Smith County, Kansas, near Smith Center.

More Beautiful to live with ...
Come to our house
See how our old rugs and furniture have actually taken on new life,
We had them Duracleaned!
For economy and convenience ... have your upholstery and floor coverings Duracleaned by experts, right in your home. Watch the unusual care with which these craftsmen beautify your furnishings.
Duracleaning means your fabric lasts longer because this modern, safe cleaning process avoids strong soaps and chemicals which so often harm the dyes or fabric. Longer life too, because there is no wear, no breaking of fibers caused by machine scrubbing.
This patent protected service is recommended by America's leading furniture and department stores.
What Makes Duracleaning "Different"
It cleans by absorption!
Embedded dirt and grit are first removed by "deep suction." Many cleaning methods leave enough dirt-laden soap in your rugs and upholstery to cause "matting" or "rapid resoiling." Duracleaning avoids this.
The mild aerated Duracleaning foam loosens and absorbs sticky soil and stains, holding this grime in suspension above the surface until removed.
No inconvenience! Duracleaned fabrics are dry in just a few hours. Special ingredients re-enliven wool fibers. Rug pile unmats and rises. Colors revive. Your fabrics are left clean, fresh, enlivened ... your home is more beautiful to live with.
Duraproof—If you wish, you may at the same time have your floor coverings, upholstery, clothing or furs Duraproofed. You have 4 years protection against damage from moths and carpet beetles. Also protects against mildew. The annual cost is lower than applying less effective moth solutions yourself. Have your fabrics Duraproofed today—before damage develops.

Hogs Blamed For Accident Near Upper

Hogs walking in the road were blamed for causing an automobile accident on Route 30-N, 2½ miles west of Upper Sandusky, yesterday at 4:20 p.m.

A car driven by Richard Adams, 26, of Bucyrus struck the rear of a car driven by Robert Clark, 29, of 301 South Grand avenue, slightly damaging both vehicles. Both drivers told state highway patrolmen that they had slowed down to avoid hitting hogs which had walked onto the highway.

Charles Cundiff, 23, of Clearfield, Ky., told patrolmen that he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and drove off the road on Route 30-S, three miles south of Galion, yesterday at 6 p.m. His lip was cut and Maxine Foster of Shelby, O., a passenger, suffered a cut right knee. They were taken by passing motorists to Galion City Hospital where they were treated and released.

The car was extensively damaged.

Edwin Brake, 39, of Columbus, driver of a tractor and semi-trailer, was arrested by patrolmen at 3:45 p.m. yesterday on a charge of passing without the assured clear distance on Route 23. He pleaded guilty before Paul White, acting mayor of Delaware and was fined $5 and costs. The costs were suspended.

Prince Albert Carnell, 48, of 336 Waterloo street was arrested at 10:40 p.m. for failing to obey a stop sign at the intersection of Routes 4 and 23. He was cited to appear today in Marion Municipal Court.

"No Square Pegs In Round Holes"

Air Force Reservists To Be Reclassified

DALLAS, Oct. 2 — (AP)—If you're an Air Force reservist—and have become, say a dentist, since being discharged—chances are you won't return to the old gun post if Uncle Sam beckons.

At least that's the hope of the Air Force's current experimental reclassification program — going on now in Dallas and San Francisco.

"Things can happen to a man in five years," explained Capt. J. W. Godbold of Decatur, Ga., spokesman for the program here.

"For one thing, the reservist's record file has become badly outmoded."

Capt. Godbold gave this example:

"We recalled a former engine mechanic. We couldn't very well put him back on his old job because during his five years in civil life he had completed study to enter the medical profession.

"It cost the Air Force about $300 to get that bit of information on one man. We had to send him back home and call another reservist for the mechanic post.

"That's' the sort of thing we hope our reclassification program will eliminate."

Records Neglected

The captain put it this way:

"In the last five or six years the Air Force has spent its money on Airplanes and equipment. Reserve records have been drastically neglected.

"They have to be brought up to date and two methods are being tried."

In Dallas a team of 40 Air Force men personally will interview the estimated 2,500 reservists, checking their physical condition, occupational qualifications and availability status.

That's right—your position in civil life may make you unavailable for recall to the Air Force.

The same program, essentially, is being carried out in San Francisco, except mailed questionaires are being used instead of personal interviews.

The questionaires are cheaper, but personal interviews are more thorough. The Air Force will decide in about six weeks just which of the programs to launch on a nation-wide scale.

Can't Apply To All

"Of course this doesn't mean that all Air Force reservists will be recalled to work in their civilian capacity. As Gen. Lewis B. Hershey(who heads the country's selective service program) said last year, 'somebody's got to kill,'" Capt. Godbold said.

He said that even among the first 20 men interviewed this week many were no longer physically qualified to serve. Others had completed college work, had more experience and were qualified for more responsible jobs.

We've got something different

And we're not talking about our food which, of course is magnificient. We mean our warm friendly atmosphere which constantly seems to startle folks. Guess they're not used to a smile, but they certainly like it because they keep coming back every time. How about you? (Signed) BEANIE NICOLOSI

J. B. Bray Chairman of Campaign

Plans for Community Chest Drive Progress

J. B. BRAY

FOREST LOUDENSLAGER

PAUL L. FELDER

CHARLES HARMON

Plans for the 1952 Community Chest Campaign are now nearing completion.

Campaign Chairman J. B. Bray announced today organization for the Chest Drive was moving along well, that many divisions have been set up, and that the volunteer workers are rapidly getting their committees oriented for the important work ahead.

"Dates set for the drive this year are Oct. 16 through Oct. 26," pointed out Mr. Bray. "The Trustees of the Community Foundation have approved a goal of $97,764, an increase of 24 percent over last year—and every penny of it will be needed for Marion County's Red Feather Agencies to carry out their greatly enlarged programs for next year."

Assistants

Assisting Mr. Bray in conducting the drive are Paul L. Felder, Charles D. Harmon, and Forest D. Loudenslager who will serve as members of the executive committee.

"It is a pleasure to be working with these capable leaders," said Mr. Bray. "They have generously given of their time and efforts in Red Feather Drives of past years, and I have full confidence that they and the countless workers who have volunteered to cooperate with them will not rest until our 1932 goal has been reached and surpassed."

Mr. Bray explained that the goal this year represents a somewhat changed breakdown over last year's figures. Most important of the changes is a new name among Marion's Red Feather Agencies — the Marion County Family Service Society, an agency which will employ the services of skilled social workers to assist in solving problems for Marion families. The new agency will be directed by an unpaid board of trustees, to be elected by all contributors to the 1951 Community Chest.

U.S.O. Important

In addition to our own character-building and welfare agencies in Marion Mr. Bray cited another important objective of the 1952 Community Chest operation —the United Defense Fund which includes the U.S.O.

"The U.S.O. share of the 1952 Red Feather Drive is more important this year than any year since World War II," Mr. Bray stated "for a number of Marion men and women are in uniform, and the funds we contribute to the U.S.O. will help to assure that they have wholesome diversion while they are away from home.

13 Marion Men Complete Basic Air Force Training

Giants Continue Great Comeback in Playoff

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

FOOTBALL TIME. Saturday afternoon we journeyed down to Columbus to see Woody Hayes' Bucks do battle with Southern Methodist (That's Texas, son) and came away impressed by their defensive line, the all-around excellence of Versatile Vic Janowicz, but mostly by rubber-arm Fred Benners of the Mustangs.

With State leading, 7-0, the clock showing a little more than two minutes and Benners hitting his receivers with monotonous regularity, the gentleman on our left said, "It will have to be on a fumble—that's the only way they're going to stop Benners."

ON THE NOSE. He hit it on the nose. Benners hit a receiver on the 17 and when big Joe Campanella applied a bone-crushing tackle the ball was fumbled with Sonny Gandee of O S.U., recovering. The Bucks ran the clock out and 80,735 fans moved wearily for the exits, talking about a 6-3, 195-pound youngster with a crew cut and the poise of General Douglas MacArthur.

In winning, Hayes' young men showed several weaknesses. The downfield blocking just wasn't there and the offensive line was green.

On the optimistic side, however, was the play of Coach Harry Strobel's defensive line headed by Dick Logan and linebacker and Captain Bob Heid. The latter, a former Buckeye Leaguer for Fremont Ross, is as vicious a tackler as we have seen since Jack Linginger was graduated. Heid definitely was an All-American against the Mustangs.

FEARLESS FRED. Don't let them tell you State is weak on pass defense No team can keep the uncomparable Mr. Benners from throwing a TD aerial and be classified as weak.

"Fearless Fred" Bruney, who looked like a boy among men on the field, was outstanding. The little 160-pounder was very alert in the secondary.

Janowicz also staved off a score by intercepting one of Benners' heaves in the State end zone.

WANTED: PLUNGING FULLBACK. The Bucks looked woefully weak at the fullback spot John Hay, now a good boy after his run-in with the Columbus law, may be ready for the Michigan State game this Saturday. They could have used him against the Mustangs.

Janowicz smashed into the line like a fullback and on several cutbacks ran like Jerry 'Krall, former Buck great. Walt Klevay was unable to shake loose for much yardage although he made a circus catch of one of Tony Curcillo's tosses.

GAME NOTES: Once again the Ohio State marching band gave a swell half-time show . . . S.M.U. rooters displayed several Texas flags and 10-gallon hats were worn with Texas pride . . . The visitors rate as the finest sportsmen we have seen . . . They tackle hard, but clean . . . Hayes used only three men to rush the passer, dropping the others back to cover potential receivers . . . Fesler's strategy last season, which was sharply criticized, was to employ five rusers . . . The weather was ideal for football . . . Janowicz made a great play on a bad pass from center while back in punt formation. He grabbed it off the ground cooly and got off a booming punt over the out-stretched hands of two S.M.U. men.

Fish, Game Group See Films Tonight

A public meeting at the Eagles hall at 8 tonight will open the fall meetings of the Marion County Fish and Game Association. Two films sponsored by the Carling Conservation Club of Canada will be shown. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

The films to be shown include "Expedition Moose" and "Pheasant Island." Ralph Seaman, secretary of the Canadian conservation organization, will accompany the film with an explanatory talk. In addition to the other films, Mr. Seaman will show a film, "Taking Coho Salmon on a Fly."

The Carling Club was organized in Canada in 1945 and has expanded until today it includes some 100,000 members. These films are shown throughout Canada and the United States in an effort to assist other conservation groups in carrying out their programs. The two films tell the story of two of the club's best-known projects.

Durocher's Pitching Staff Well-Rested; Brooks Tired

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Today could be the day when New York's miracle Giants climax the most sensational surge in National League history by winning the pennant.

For the fist time this year, following yesterday's clean-cut 3-1 Ebbets' Field victory over Brooklyn in the first of the best-of- three game playoff, the Giants find themselves solidly entrenched in the driver's seat.

Professional odds-makers, who only six weeks ago were offering 50 to 1 odds against the Giants' pennant chances, have established Leo Durocher's darlings a prohibitive favorite to drub the Dodgers again for the right to meet the Yankees in an all-New York World Series.

The World Series will start Thursday at the Yankee Stadium regardless of which team wins the playoff.

Charlie Dressen's weary Dodgers trudge into the Polo Grounds this afternon, trailing the Giants for the first time since the opening week of the campaign. Yesterday's loss dropped them a full game behind the Giants, who were behind Brooklyn by 13½ games on Aug 11. Since then the Giants have won 38 of 45, including their last eight in a row, while the Brooks have taken only 26 of 50.

Brooklyn definitely was the underdog as Dressen dug deep into his riddled mound corps for a wholesome and rested pitcher Unless there is an 11th hour switch, Dressen's hesitant choice lay between Carl Erskine (16-12) and Clem Labine (4-1), both young, inexperienced righthanders.

Undecided

Durocher also was undecided whom to start in the second game. It was to be either Sal Maglie (23-6) or Sheldon Jones (6-10). Durocher, however, was in a much better position to gamble than Dressen. He could take a chance on Jones and have a well-rested Maglie ready for tomorrow's rubber game should the Giants lose today. If Jones wins, he can open the World Series with Maglie.

Erskine and Labine both saw action in Sunday's dramatic 14-inning thriller in Philadelphia in which the Dodgers were forced to use seven of their 10 pitchers.

"I had planned to use Don Newcombe in the playoff opener," Dressen explained sadly, "and follow with Preacher Roe today. The Phillies upset our plans."

"If the Giants should beat us for the flag," he added, "And our chances certainly appear none too bright at the moment, you can trace back our defeat to the victory in Philadelphia Sunday.

"That game left me with a riddled pitching staff and a crippled catcher. Roy Campanella, who hurt his leg in the fourth inning Sunday, is the backbone of our club You saw him out there. He can't run If he were all right, there's no telling what might have happened."

Dressen said he was undecided whether he would substitute Al (Rube) Walker for the hard-socking backstop.

"If we should win today," Charlie added, "It will be Newcombe tomorrow and Roe to open the World Series Thursday. I'll let the big buy (Newcombe) blaze 'em as far as he can go. I wish I could pitch him today. But he is dog-tired. He could hardly lift his arm yesterday after pitching nine shutout innings Saturday night and five more the next afternoon."

Masterminding

Durocher, whose masterminding during the last six weeks has been an important feature of the Giants' brilliant climb, was careful not to make any gloating remarks. As he has done from the start, Leo gave all the credit to his players.

"Don't talk to me," he told reporters. "Go talk to the players They did it all. All I did was stand in the third base coaching box waving my home run hitters to the plate.

"It was a typical Giant victory—a team triumph That's the way it's been all along. Hearn-Thomson-Irvin-Westrum-Stanky-Darke-Lockman — all of them Each had a hand in the victory."

The little skipper was right Jim Hearn, the big raw-boned righthander from Atlanta, Ga., pitched probably his best game, certainly the most important, of his career. Five hits were all he allowed as he struck out five and walked only two in outdueling Ralph Branca for his 17th victory.

A second-inning home run by Andy Pafko averted the Dodger shutout. In only one inning—the fourth—did the Brooks get as many of two runners on the base paths. That was when Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson smashed back-to-back singles with one out.

Then, with runners on first and third, Hearn induced Campanella to roll into a double play, The relay to first pulled Whitey Lockman far off the base, but the first baseman still had plenty of time to tag the Limping Campanella.

Tight Defense

What trouble Hearn encountered during the afternoon was efficiently eradicated by the tight Giant defense, which reeled off four double plays. Second baseman Eddie Stanky figured in all four, and Shortstop Alvin Dark took part in three. Catcher Wes Westrum cut down two would-be base stealers with bullet throws to second and caught a flawless game.

Bobby Thomson, hottest hitter on the club during the surge, provided the big blow. The converted third baseman walloped a fourth-inning homer with a mate aboard to erase Brooklyn's 1-0 lead It was Bobby's 31st four-bagger and his fourth at Ebbets' Field. Thomson also starred in the field with a bare-handed grab of a tricky bouncer to throw out Carl Furillo in the sixth.

Monte Irvin, the team's most consistent run producer, also chimed in with a homer, his 24th, and his fifth off Branca. The crowd of 30,707 sensed that this was the crusher.

STANKY STEPS. Eddie Stanky, New York second baseman, steps over sliding Jackie Robinson, Dodgers' second baseman, after getting the out and fires to first for double play on Roy Campanella in 4th inning of National League playoff game at Ebbets Field. Roy had grounded to Shortstop Al Dark who tossed to Stanky

Louis-Marciano Bout Shifted To Garden Oct. 26

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano won't catch cold at their 10-round heavyweight fight this month after all.

The bout, originally set for the Polo Grounds on the night of Oct 11, has been moved indoors to Madison Square Garden and the date moved back to Oct. 26.

The International Boxing Club announced the shift yesterday, explaining that the club didn't want to risk a possible World Series game delaying preparations to get the Polo Grounds ready for the bout.

O.W.U. Set For Buffalo

DELAWARE, Oct 2 — Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishops back on the win trail after an opening game loss, travel to New York this week to face the burly Bulls of the University of Buffalo, Friday night

Coach Glenn Fraser's newly-adopted 'T' has been unimpressive in its first two showings The opener at Bowling Green was lost, 23-13, and last Saturday it sputtered to a 20-0 conquest of under-manned Otterbein at home

Dwight McMahan nicknamed 'Mighty Mouse' by his mates, has been the only sparkler for the Bishop offense thus far The 180-pound left half has averaged just under 10 yards a try in 15 ball-carrying attempts and registered a 64-yard touchdown run in the B G loss

Righ Half Joe Slone a 160-pound swifty, came through with 103 yards in 8 chances against the Otters after missing the opener with a foot injury The passing of Hayden Buckley, senior quarterback has been below expectations to date and will have to improve if the B shops expect to make any kind of a showing against the Bulls

Buffalo with an offense built around 200-pound Quarterback Don Holland and a flock of hard-running backs, has the same record as the Bishops Starting with a handy 26 to 0 victory over Cortland the B ills pumped up a 13-0 lead against tough Colgate before it was deflated with a rush of 47 Red Raider points

Buck Scout Claims M.S.C. Has Weakness

COLUMBUS, Oct 2 — (AP) — Ernie Godfrey, Ohio State assistant football coach, said yesterday Michigan State has a weakness, but he didn't say what it is

He did say Ohio State will hammer way at it Saturday

Godfrey scouted Michigan State's victories over Michigan, 25-0, and Oregon State, 6-0

"I've never seen a team improve so much in a week" he said

O.S.U Coach Wayne Woodrow Hayes said the Bucks must have an entirely new defense for Michigan State's ground attack

"Last Saturday we had to concentrate on pass defense to stop Fred Benners of South Methodist," Hayes said He said Ohio State was lucky to nose out S M U, 7-0

The Texans only gained 38 yards against the Bucks on the ground

Hayes' big problem is offense He has a green line

'We don't have our stuff timed up well enough to use a man in motion off the T,' and we're awfully weak going up the middle Michigan couldn't budge the middle of the Spartan line, and I don't see how we can," Hayes said.

Iran Granted 10-Day Delay In Oil Dispute

Block British Bid For Quick Hearing In Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 2—(AP)—Iran appeared today to have out maneuvered Britain by getting the United Nations Security Council to agree to a 10-day postponement of the British-Iranian Oil debate.

While Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb delivered a blistering attack yesterday on Iran and called for urgent action to protect Britain's stake in the rich Iranian oil industry, ambassador Ali Gholi Ardalan, Iran's permanent U.N. delegate, sat quietly at the council's big horseshoe table in the Flushing Meadow meeting hall.

Then he announced he had no power to take part in the debate and said his government would need 10 days to get a high-ranking representative here from Tehran to present its case. Jebb protested, but there was no way of getting around the delay. It is traditional in the U.N. that a government must have time to get its chosen representative to New York.

There still was no answer here to the question whether Iran's aged premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, would come to New York to make a personal appeal to the council. Some delegates understood Ardalan to mean that the high representative he referred to was Mossadegh, but he was careful to point out that he had not said Mossadegh was coming.

In Tehran, deputy premier Hossein Fatemi said last night that if Iran finally decided to send a delegation, Mossadegh would head it.

He reiterated that Iran still insists that the last British technicians leave the refinery center of Abadan by Thursday morning.

Thursday is the deadline set by Iran for the final withdrawal of the 350 British technicians remaining there.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(UP)—Stocks extended yesterday's gains at a moderately active opening today.

Traders sought out special issues and continued to show interest in leaders they considered behind the market. At the same time some of the recent favorites were neglected on the theory they had achieved their goals on the upside.

Opening trades, generally made on small amounts, showed fractional gains in most instances. Many traders were getting their lists in order to desert the street this afternoon for the Polo Grounds where the second National League game playoff is scheduled.

Among the better initial gainers were Douglas Aircraft at 60 up 1; Goodrich 62½ up ¾; Deep Rock Oil 63½ up ¾; Amerada 129 up ½; U. S. Rubber 70⅝ up ½; and Kennecott 84¾ up ½.

United States Steel firmed ¼ to 43 on 1,500 shares. Chrysler was up ¼ in the auto section. Westinghouse Electric had a 3,000 share block at 39¾ unchanged.

Railroads developed some irregularity with Santa Fe off ¾ at 78¼.

Sea Serpents Just Old-Time Custom

BOSTON — (UP) — Even 125 years ago, they were "seeing" sea serpents off the New England coast.

Rarely does spring arrive without at least one report of a monster. The reports are nothing new.

Zion's Herald, Methodist publication, in its Aug. 2, 1826 issue, carried this report:

"Sea Sergent Again — Capt. Holdredge, of the ship Silas Richards, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool, states that in passing George's Banks five days since, he had a fair view of the serpent. It was about 10 rods from the ship . . . and that part which appeared out of water, about 60 feet in length.

"The head and protuberances were similar to the representations which have been frequently given of him by persons who had seen him near Cape Ann.

"A certificate has been drawn up and signed by the passengers which, with a drawing made by one of the gentlemen, gives a minute description of the serpent. . . . The number and credibility of the witnesses place beyond all doubt the existence of such an animal."

"Pike's Peak or Bust" was the slogan of the 1859 gold rush.

Store Bank Records In Mushroom Caves

HUDSON, N. Y.—(UP)—Mother Earth, acting as a super storage place far out of reach of atom bombs, theft and fire, has received her first consignment of valuables in this area.

A load of microfilm and bank records were deposited in the Iron Mountain storage vaults, a fortress of deep caves near here.

The microfilm, brought in by helicopter, is owned by the Diebold Safe & Lock Co. of New York City. The records, carted by armored car, belong to the East River Bank, also of New York.

Herman Knaust of Saugerties, N. Y., one of the owners of the caves, said federal and state governments here and abroad have inquired about availability of space.

Among those interested in renting storage room are banks, museums, insurance firms and educational institutions.

Knaust is a member of Knaust Brothers, one of the largest mushroom-growing firms in the world.

Coastal fog signals were, until the middle of the 19th Century, practically unknown.
